

Went to Devon Great Consols mine and had an interesting view over the whole of the surface works. I spent the evening at the hotel writing letters.

While on the mine estate, had a ride on the engine down to the end of the line and went on to the Morwell Rocks from which there is a fine view.

Walked about 4 miles towards Manx Tavy before tea.

Walked to the mine again & went down to the bottom (1400 odd feet) on ladders, ascending by the main engine. In the afternoon went out to Kidford by train, and saw the waterfall - All three fell down at different times, and got to Tavistock in a somewhat dirty condition. In the evening dined at Christo Bridgman's. I went out for about half an hour to call on Mr. Pearce.
