

Contributors

Charles Harvey is Director of the National Westminster Centre for Management Studies at Royal Holloway and Bedford College, University of London; Jon Press is Principal Lecturer in History at Bath College of Higher Education. Their important new book William Morris. Design and Enterprise in Victorian Britain will be reviewed in the Spring issue by Jan Marsh.

Lesley A. Baker is a previous contributor to The Journal who lives in Australia and is particularly concerned with environmental issues; she enjoys corresponding with British members.

Christopher Shaw teaches social science at Harrogate College of Arts and Technology; his special interest is in the history of ideas, and he recently co-edited a book about nostalgia, The Imagined Past (Manchester University Press).

Richard Pearson is working on the Morris section of the forthcoming Index of English Literary Manuscripts Vol. IV (1800–1900), Part 3.

David Latham is Associate Professor of English at the University of Lethbridge, Alberta, where Sheila Latham is Collections Librarian.