

BIOGRAPHICAL NOTES

Peter Faulkner is a long-standing member of the Society: lectures in English at Exeter University; won the Peter Floud Prize with his essay on Morris and Eric Gill, and in 1980 gave the inaugural Kelmscott Lecture.

Linda Parry is Research Assistant in the Textiles Department of the Victoria and Albert Museum: author of the recently published 'William Morris Textiles' and leading authority on the subject.

Marjorie Breakspear is a member of the Society who was persuaded by two other members, Heather and Robin Tanner, to write down her memories of Kelmscot and May Morris, from which this article is taken. She lives in Morris-country, at Faringdon.

Sheila and David Latham are North American members who lecture in English Literature at Toronto and will continue to compile and up-date this useful Morris-bibliography.
